RDB To Write The Palm Beach County Story In Booklet

County Publication To Feature Assets Of All County Sections

The Palm Beach County story to be told graphically and pictorially in the booklet being published by the county Resources and Development Board will be published soon, Emmett Roberts, local RDB director, said this week.

The book, 50,000 of which will be printed in the first group to be distributed nationally, is the first publication in the state to point out the advantages and attractions of a whole county, Roberts said. The publication will emphasize tourist, agricultural, commercial and industrial attractions, resources and opportunities to be found in the county's diversified area. Each community within the county will be represented equally with pictures and reading matter regardless of size, according to Roberts.

Goal of the book committee is to include all of the information which prospective winter visitors, potential investors, would-be residents and manufacturers speculating on a new location would want to know.

Offering a collective presentation of county assets, the book promotes each individual community more than a single brochure on an individual town would, Roberts

Formerly the bullets were purchased for eight cents apiece and with the machine they can be made at a cost of one and a half cents each.

So far the department members have made 12 boxes of bullets.

C. of C. Directors Push Action On Two Main Projects

Chamber Starts Work Toward Improved Glades Exhibit At Co. Exposition

Making advanced plans for the Glades exhibit at the annual Palm Beach County Exposition to be a representative show, directors of the Chamber of commerce outlined a cooperative program at their regular monthly meeting in the chamber building Tuesday night.

Henry O. Wood was appointed to call a meeting of representatives of agencies and civic clubs to discuss and arrange for the exhibit. Emmett Roberts, Bill Graber and Mrs. George Young compose a committee to coordinate the work of the agencies on exhibit construction. Directors suggested that special booth workers be selected and schooled in Glades information and data to pass on to the public.

Starting action again on organization sponsored projects, directors heard reports on the proposed city port and dock facilities, the organization's number one project for the year, and the improvement program proposed for the local airport.

Junius Harris reported that City Engineer John T. Pickett had been in contact with H. M.Tschirgi, district port engineer, but that such extensive work has been going on at the Port of Palm Beach this summer, the drawing of local port plans has been postponed. Tschirgi promised that he will start on the plans within the next ten days, according to Harris' report. Secretary Mrs. George C. Young was authorized to write a letter to the Port Authority pushing the project and to determine how much has been accomplished.

Harris stated that the engineers will draw up a tentative plan which will be submitted to the city commission and the chamber of commerce for ap-

TWO LOCAL WOMEN ARE INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Earl Lindrose is recuperating from broken ribs and fractured vertebrae in the Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Her injuries were sustained when the convertible in which she and Mrs. Bob Muller were driving turned over one and a half times Friday afternoon on SR 80 three miles west of West Palm Beach, according to State Highway Patrolman, P. P. Cook.

Both local women were treated for shock and Mrs. Muller was released after treatment for a sprained wrist and bruises.

They were traveling toward Belle Glade on wet pavement when the car got out of control, went into a spin and turned over one and a half times. It was the only car involved.

According to Mrs. Muller's account, the cause of the accident may have been the breaking of one of the rear shock absorbers.

A doctor, who was in one of the cars behind the women's, treated the accident victims until the ambulance arrived on the scene.

Mrs. Lindrose may have to remain in the hospital for several weeks.

Estimated expenditures are under the budget total last year which was $270,774.63. This reduction is due to the over estimate of revenue especially from cigarette taxes last year, the city clerk stated.

Final reading of the budget is set for Wednesday night at the regular commission meeting.

City Candidates' Stands Divided On Referendum Bill And Gambling Within City

Candidates Express Pros And Cons On Two Prominent City Issues

Stands of the candidates running for city commission in the general election here Tuesday were divided this week on the referendum bill which grants additional powers to the city, and on permitting gambling within the city.

The city clerk's minutes book of commission meetings shows that the bill prior to passage in the state legislature was voted for unamiously by all the present city commissioners on April 25, 1951. According to the record, Commissioner Junius Harris made the motion for passage and Commissioner N. D. Lloyd seconded it.

Commission candidates from North Borough are widely divided in their views on the bill.

Junius Harris, incumbent, emphasized that the bill is important in clarifying the present city charter and bringing it up to date. He stated that most of the provisions in the bill merely are in compliance with new state laws.

"The section granting the city power to issue bonds is still subject to the general law which calls for a vote of the people on the issuance of such bonds," he stated. "As it stands now, the city must go through a lot of red tape such as having bonds approved by the state legislature before it can go ahead with the issuance."

According to Harris, the section providing that the city can regulate parking pertains to city owned lots which may be planned in a future development program to facilitate parking in the case of extensive city growth.

Taking his stand on gambling within the city, Harris said that the city cannot condone that which is forbidden by state or county laws.

Proceeds from gambling are not necessary to operate the municipal government, he stated.

H. O. Carlton, expressing his opinion on the referendum bill stated, "I haven't read it, but the city has enough power now. I'm against it. It looks like a move to saddle everything on the tax payers without consulting them."

Carlton stated that he didn't have anything to say on the subject of gambling pointing out that it's up to the people. "But I'm for law and order," he stressed.

Opposing the referendum, W. K. Whitlock said that it gives too much power to the commission and the public can't be sure of the commission which will be there to administer it. He had no comment to make on gambling within the city.

On analyzing the bill, Herman Close, candidate from West Borough, said that the bill contains several good sections which would assist the operation of a progressive city government but that there are several sections which seem to give too much power to the city. On permitting gambling in the city, he stated that if the people insist on it in some quarters, it should be carefully controlled.

ROTARY CLUB TO ASSIST 4-H AND FFA BOYS

The Rotary Club is starting a program to assist 4-H and FFA boys in selecting and buying calves, according to H. L. Speer, chairman of the committee.

The club will finance the purchase of the calves and the boys will return the principal at the time of sale, Speer said.

He explained that the plan has two purposes, to assist the boys and to secure a source for calves for the Southeastern Livestock Show here.

Diagnosing planting operations in the Glades, Speer reported that farmers have already put in some acreages in celery, cabbage and fall feed corn. It is expected that some fall sweet corn will be planted soon, he said.

Pvt. R. Causseaux Captures Honors At Swimming Meet

Pvt. Ralph Causseaux, formerly of this city, splashed his way to swimming fame recently in a post swimming meet at the enlisted men's pool at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Pvt. Causseaux, first Enlisted Training Company, the Ordnance School, took two firsts and was a member of his unit's relay team which took honors in that department.

A Milwaukee soldier, Robert Halfmann placed in all five of his events and Jim Davis, Whittier, Calif., was the only other entry to win two firsts.

Pvt. Causseaux took top honors in the 50-yard freestyle and the 50-yard backstroke races.

He attended the Belle Glade High School when he was a member of the Golden Ram football team.

Following five days of processing at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, Pvt. Causseaux was sent to Fort George G. Meade, Maryland where he took his basic training. He served in the 113 Ordnance (MM) Co. at that camp after which he was sent to the Aberdeen Proving Ground for ten to twelve weeks of technical training.

Several months ago Pvt. Causseaux wrote to the Belle Glade Herald asking that the paper be sent him that he might follow the local happenings of his home town. At that time he expressed pride in the record of the Ram football team.

The board will hear any complaints on tax assessments of real estate and personal property at that time.

Shootin' BlankS

By Paulette

Political campaign maneuvers have been occuring thick and fast in this Glades town this week. And by any other polite name these would still be maneuvers.

These vary from the corner discussion variety to the personal visit and solicitation type. It was even rumored that one candidate might pull a toned down Lady Godiva act minus Lady Godiva which, of course, would have just left the horse. Whether his dreams

YOUR VOTE

Campaigns have been waged from the time this nation was young to get the people out to vote. These drives usually emphasize that it's a citizen's duty and privilege to exercise the rights given him by the form of government under which he lives.

This persuasion to vote is sound but it is only a half truth. Certainly it is important that a peoples government represent as many individuals as possible but it is doubly necessary that an individual's vote truly represent him.

A mass of misguided votes often brings about intolerable situations for the voters themselves such as the Hague machine in New Jersey and the Pendergast machine in Kansas. Actually the people often vote against themselves sometimes unwittingly but also because they do not realize that voting takes careful examination into issues and the backgrounds of the candidates.

Evaluation of politics almost becomes an impossible task especially in large cosmopoliton areas. In such cases the material which the public is fed to examine is put out by the most powerful and wealthy politicians and clics. In a small municipality such as our city pressures of power and special interest groups are present also. The real goal of these groups is unrevealed by the candidates but the tragic truth is unrobed when it is too late.

In a small city it is much easier for a conscientious voter to look behind the scenes and to do a little examining on his own without swallowing a given dose down with a politician's glass of water.

On the front page of this issue candidates running for election to city commission in the general election here Tuesday answer two questions, one regarding the referendum and the other concerning their stand on gambling in the city.

Although these are only two issues, study them. Look closely at the candidates who avoid a direct answer. Determine the reason for their silence. Also ponder the purposes of those whose platforms are composed of vague, high sounding words such as efficient and honest city government. Do they point out anything specific? Do they take a definite stand on anything specific? In other words, demand to know what the candidates favor.

There are frequently a few candidates who wave the flag against something and when pinned down to their objections, they don't understand the very thing they claim to oppose. These "I'm again' it" men will hinder the progress and constructive advancement of government from start to finish with this very attitude.

Think twice about wide spread campaigns to discredit any one candidate especially if these seem organized. Determine whether these moves have any sound roots or if they stem from the desire to rid the city of an honest, efficient man whose principal objective is to do the best for the city at a tremendous cost to himself in time and effort. Don't let such a man down for in doing so your government and you suffer. Often the man who does the most and who stands for certain and specific forces for good is assailed by special interest groups.

Examine, ponder and wonder and make your vote a constructive rather than a distructive influence in your city government.

City Candidates

O. F. Thomas, the other candidate from West Borough, was not available for comment.

Three of the four candidates running from Central Borough also expressed differing opinions on the bill.

W. L. Collins, incumbent, said, "I am not opposed to the bill although I don't know what the city could do for the people that it has not already done." Answering the gambling question, he said that he is not a gambler himself and is against it althoug he said that this problem has to be worked out to suit the community.

"The decision on the bill is up to the people and my decision should come after elected if elected, Cliff Livingston said. When questioned concerning gambling, he stated that he didn't want to express his views on the subject.

A. J. Richmond after examining each provision of the bill said he objects to all sections except nine and ten maintaining that "most of the provisions of this act are not in the best interest of the people, because they put too much authority in the hands of the city commission." The two he excepted, providing for the city to impose water rates and to arrange for a bus transporation system "are alright," he said. "but unfortunately these two cannot be passed without the others since the act is to be voted on as a whole."

E. R. Price could not be reached for a statement.

KATHERINE YOUNG WED IN DOUBLE RING CEREMONY

Miss Ila Katherine Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Young, city, and Jasper Lockwood Olmstead, son of Richard D. Olmstead and the late Mrs. Olmstead, Worcester, Massachusetts, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony solemnized against a background of green palms, white chrysanthemums and candalabras bearing lighted tapers.

Rev. Leonard L. Vanderwater, pastor of the St. Augustine Methodist Church, officiated at the 5 O'clock service in the Community Methodist Church here last Sunday.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of aloncon lace over white satin designed with a sweetheart neckline and long tight sleeves tapering to a point. Her finger tip length veil was of illusion lace. She carried a white Bible centered with a white orchid and showered with carnations and tuberoses.

Miss Billie Kay Young, sister of the bride, was dressed in a pink taffeta gown featuring a portrait neckline, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. On her head she wore a green bonnet and she carried a nosegay of green carnations.

Bridesmaids, Jane P. Olmstead, Worcester, Mass., sister of the groom, Nancy Crossen, West Palm Beach, and Helen Freidheim, Belle Glade, wore green taffeta gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. They wore pink bonnets and carried nosegays of green carnations.

Flower girl, Patsy Dooley, Belle Glade, scattered rose petals from a pink basket before the bride. She wore a pink organdy over taffeta dress.

Groom's attendants were Gene M. Olmstead, his brother of Charlotte, North Carolina, best man; and ushers, Robert Mathews, John Breggar and Jerry Cone, all of Belle Glade.

The bride's mother chose a gown of blue eripe lace accented with pink accessories of a halo hat and a pink carnation corsage.

A buffet supper reception was held at the parent's home in Northmoor Gardens which was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums, and tuberoses. The bride's table was trimmed with white orchids and was centered with a large antique doll dressed in a copy of the bride's gown.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Horner Lorve, grandmother of the bride, Judge and Mrs. Norman Hendry, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Russell and children, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Russell and Miss Betty Jean Felton of Miami, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Payton of Miami Beach, Miss Sandra Faror, Mrs. Faror, Ft. Lauderdale and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stewart, Dothan, Ala.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Lake Lure Inn in North Carolina and will make their home at 2828 S. Wakefield St., Arlington, Virginia.

Miss Audrey O'Barski became the bride of Franklin C. Stallings in a candle-lighted ceremony Saturday, August 30th, at 5:00 P. M., in the St. Stephens Episcopal Church, Coral Gables, with Father Bruninga officiating.

The bride wore a floor length long sleeved gown of white slipper satin, with a juliet satin corded cap, to which was attached a finger-tip veil of illusion. She wore a pearl necklace presented to her by her grandmother. She carried an arm bouquet of white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Frances Olney, Miami, wore a pink formal gown with shorter veil and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

The junior bridesmaid, little Miss Janet Ruth Kirk, sister of the groom, wore a knee length dress of green taffeta with velvet jacket, and a tiara of yellow trimmed with lily of the valley, carrying an arm bouquet of yellow carnations.

The brides mother, and the grooms mother, both wore coffee-tan costumes with brown accessories and brown and purple Vanda orchids.

C. William Baker of Miami served as best man.

Mrs. Stallings wore tangerine linen with navy blue accessories for her going away costume, also a pearl necklace that was the wedding gift of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Barski entertained the wedding party and both families and their relatives at the "Garden On the Trail," after which the young couple left by motor for San Diego, Calif., where the groom is stationed as a member of the U. S. Marines.

We can do it by our example. . . and by being interested in what the younger generation is doing. We can do it by helping in "Y", Scouting, P. T. The rearing of children places important and heavy responsibilities on parents in taking care of their physical, mental and spiritual needs. Each is equally important in it's own sphere.

A normal healthy childhood usually means bruises, broken bones and other hurts from good hard tussels. It also usually includes a portion of colds, sore throats and diseases such as measles. Therefore, the Glades' Drug Store is the parents' best friend where they always know they are getting competent, dependable drug service.

"Individually our communities probably have little more to sell than many other resort and agricultural communities in Florida but collectively Palm Beach County has more to sell than any other county."

Approximately 50,000 copies of the 32-page, advertisement free book will be published on the first printing by October.

Channels of distribution will be through local chamber of commerces, city and county governing bodies, trade and professional organizations, individual donors, travel bureaus, rail, air, bus and steamship lines, AAA and through a direct mailing list. Roberts is in charge of taking book orders of individuals and organizations in this area. He suggested that the book with a personal card attached in the back would make effective Christmas cards for people of the county.

He announced that sufficient orders have already been received to assure the first printing.

Idea for the county wide publication started at a meeting of an RDB special committee over a month ago. The committee is composed of Bernard H. Coloey, chairman; J. R. Meacham, vice chairman; William L. Heath, R. D. Hill, William P. Bobb, E. D. Hedrick, Robert M. Riculfi, George W. Archer, S. P. Willis, Fairfax Poindexter, Lamar Allen and Ralph J. Blank. Lamar Allen, RDB membership secretafy who has a background in the advertising and printing field, is working with the committee in the development of the project.

proval before actual construction work starts.

Mrs Young announced that a recent letter from Harold A. Wilde, district airport engineer, reported that he would have some definite information on the airport improvement program sometime this month.

Emmett Roberts, local County Resources Development Board representative, described the organization sponsored county wide pictorial book which will be published soon. He said that each community within the county will have equal representation in the book regardless of size.

The organization requests, he said, that each community select the pictures which it would like published in the book.

Directors authorized Mrs. Young to arrange for renovation and repairs of the chamber of commerce building as long as expenses would not exceed $150.

Mrs. Young reported that the new city directories are ready for distribution and that city and county maps of two sizes are available for purchase at the chamber office.

Directors moved to pass out directories to all advertisers and to send complimentary copies to all chamber of commerces in the area, county officials, the RDB and map buyers.

Emmett Roberts was appointed to fill the directorship formerly held by George C. Young who resigned a month ago.

U. S. farm income has declined 27% since 1947, according to the Florida Farm Bureau.

TO THE VOTERS AND CITIZENS OF BELLE GLADE:

Since I am a candidate for the City Commission in the election to be held Tuesday September 11, I feel that it is my responsibility to publicly express my feelings concerning the special act of the Legislature providing additional powers for the City Commission of Belle Glade. I feel that most of the provisions of this act are not in the best intrests of the people, because they put too much authority in the hands of the City Commission. I shall try to explain my reasons for stating this in the following paragraphs.

Section 2 of this act states: "Said City Commission may provide, by ordinance, that the City may purchase, own, operate or lease a public market for the sale of produce, merchandise, and goods and provide for the leasing or subleasing of all parts of said market as concessions and may charge such fees, rentals, or charges as it deems proper."

Section 3 states: "Said City Commission may regulate and control, by ordinance, the loading and unloading of trucks and vehicles and the loading and unloading of goods, merchandise, produce, labor hands or persons by said trucks or vehicles and restrict such loading or unloading to certain areas in the City."

This would allow the City Commission, if it is so desired, to build a market to sell any and all products, place it in the hands of a chosen few, and literally freeze out any competition by restricting the loading and unloading of trucks to the city market. The commissioners in charge of leasing out concessions at the market would have tremendous powers, and could, if dishonest, demand huge sums in return for granting these permits. Therefore I feel that these two provisions are very dangerous to the welfare of the people, since they would give such great authority to a few men.

Section 4 states: "Said City Commission may, by ordinance, provide for the purchase, the building, the erection, the operation, the control and the leasing of trailer parks and tourist courts and may also control and regulate off street parking and loading areas as a municipal function, and charge for space or occupancy, and also may provide for separate parks and courts and parking and loading areas for white and colored persons."

I feel that this is also dangerous to the people, because it would also allow the city to freeze out competition. I think that trailer parks and tourist courts should be restricted to certain zones as covered by the zoning board, but I don't believe the city should have the power to run them out of business.

Section 5 states that "Said City Commission may, by ordinance, provide for the building or erection of docks and wharves upon any property which it owns, controls or leases and may lease or sublease the same and may charge fees for the use thereof."

Again, this means that the city Commission will have the power to control private business. The taxpayers' money can be used to build profitable businesses to turn over to any one the commissioners may choose.

Section 6 states: "Said City Commission may, by ordinance, provide for the regulation and control of any business, profession or occupation carried on in the city, provided there is on general law preventing such action and the city may charge an occupational or privilege license thereon of whether a license is charged by the State of Florida, the amount of such occupational or privilege license to be fixed by ordinance but the same shall be reasonable in amount."

I feel that the present occupational license required by the city is sufficient and reasonable, and I see no necessity for any changes or increase.

Section 7 states: "That the City Commission may, by ordinance provide for the issuance of revenue bonds, ad valorem bonds, or revenue ad valorem bonds to finance the building or acquisition of any of the projects set forth in this act, said bonds to cover all charges in connection with said project, such as interest during construction, engineering and attorney's fees, and cost of land, and the city may purchase, lease or acquire any and all lands or sites necessary to provide any of the facilities set forth in this act and may make part payment and give its note or notes and a purchase money mortgage to secure the balance of the purchase price."

I believe that this is the worst provision of the entire act. The City Commission could, if it so desired, pay "10,000 for property or construction worth $10, and the citizens of Belle Glade would be responsible for the debt. If the city had no money to pay such debts, the Commission could float bonds or give notes, thus putting the town in debt for years to come.

Section 8 states: "Said City Commission may, by ordinance, provide for the condemnation of any property needed by the city for any municipal purpose."

I feel that property should be condemned by an appraisal board or jury set up for that purpose, rather than the City Commission.

Section 9 states that "The said City Commission may, by ordinance, establish, impose and enforce water rates both within and without the city for the use of water furnished by the city waterworks system, and in the event that it becomes the owner of gas, electrical or other public utilities, or services, it may impose and enforce rates and charges thereon, and the city is authorized to make charges for the collection of garbage and waste.

Section 10 states that "Said City Commission may, by ordinance, provide for the city operating in the corporate limits or within four miles from the city limits a bus transportation system and that the city may own or lease such rights to others qualified to furnish such services.

I feel that these provisions are all right, but unfortunately these two cannot be passed without the others, since the act is to be voted on as a whole.

I believe that the City Commission should be elected to serve the people, not dictate to them, and it is for this reason that I oppose this act. It is for this same reason that I ask for and will appreciate your vote September 11.

Sincerely yours,

A. J. RICHMOND

of conquest by horseback faded, it is not certain, but I've yet to see the evidence of his plan coming down Main Street.

Whoever the men who win win out Tuesday in the race for city commission, it is well for the public to take to heart the words of Jose Ortega.

"It is a mistake to believe that the enthusiasm of the masses depends on the value of the men who lead them. The truth is just the opposite—the social value of the men depends on the capacity for enthusiasm which the mass possesses. In certain periods the soul of the people seems to shrink. It becomes sordid, envious, petulant and its power of creating social myths is atrophied. In the time of Socrates, for instance, there were certainly men as strong as Hercules could have possibly been; but the Greek soul had cooled and was no longer capable of creating glowing myths that wove the twelve labors into a golden belt and set it in the sky."

So when the voters select whom they consider the most qualified and capable candidates next Tuesday they have only accomplished the first measure.

Whether their chosen group of leaders write a sterling record of progress and development or whether their history will read like a slow uninspiring statistical chart remains in the hands of the populace.

With city wide enthusiasm, support and assistance commissioners will make their term a prominent phase in the development toward a more progressive and prosperous community.
